What are cookies and what are they for?

A cookie is a very small file that is downloaded to the user's device when accessing a web page, to store and retrieve information about the navigation that is carried out from that device.

The use of cookies is intended to remember user preferences: language, country, login, browser characteristics, etc.

By remembering your preferences, we will know the characteristics of your device and thus be able to provide you with a better browsing experience. Cookies can help distinguish the user as a previous visitor and thus save and remember preferences that may have been established while browsing the site, personalize the pages of the site or identify which sections of the site were visited.

Cookies can also be used to obtain information about traffic within the site and estimate the number of visits made.

The user can configure his browser to accept, or not, the cookies he receives. You will find the instructions in the security settings of your browser. However, some features of our website may not work or may be more difficult to access if you reject all cookies.

Many browsers allow you to activate a private mode whereby cookies are always deleted after your visit. Depending on each browser, this private mode may have different names. Please read the help section of your browser carefully to learn more about how to activate private mode. You can continue visiting our website even if your browser is in private mode; however, the user experience may not be optimal and some features may not work.
